DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 03/14/2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.
2. Applicants have argued that Enokida failed to disclose secondary and/or tertiary alkyl substituted compounds. Applicants submit that because of the breadth of the genus in Enokida patents that the instant claims are not obvious. The examiner does not agree. As pointed out in the first office action, the specific compound disclosed in Enokida's patents was not far removed from the species of the instant claims. The main difference is that the instant claims are drawn to secondary and/or tertiary substituted alkyl compounds. The species in Enokida's patents are primary alkyl substituted compounds. However, Enokida's invention is not limited to its species. The use of the term alkyl broadly reads on secondary and/or tertiary substituted alkyl compounds. Thus an artisan having ordinary skill in the art would have had a reasonable expectation that compounds in Enokida which have secondary and/or tertiary substituted alkyl substituents would be useful in electroluminescence devices.
3. Applicants have argued that compounds which have secondary and/or tertiary substituted alkyl substituents unexpectedly showed superior properties to compounds which have a primary alkyl substituent. Applicants use as evidence for this assertion the examples shown on pages 28-30 of the specification. The examiner does not find this argument convincing because the evidence does not clearly demonstrate that the superior results are due to the fact that the compounds have a secondary and/or tertiary substituted alkyl substituent. It is not clear that the comparison doesn't simply show that different compounds would reasonably be expected to have different results. In addition, the showing is not commensurate in scope with the claimed invention which is drawn to broad genus of compounds.

The rejection is being maintained.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-5 and 9-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Enokida. See previous office action and arguments stated herein.

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
